GERMANY'S REVARNABLE CLAIM

Germany, in her attempt to claim the Caroida, 19 taking a course which seems allke a plain violation of equity and of public law Her claim is based on an alteged occupat on of one of the principal islands of the group some fifteen years ago. It is ad inted that the group covered by Spanish navigators three and half centuries ago. The group is no great distance from the Philippines and Ladrones, recognized Spanish pessessions, it is admitted that Spain has always claimed the group, and name it bears is that of a Spanish king But it is seserted now by Germany that because of non-occupation and non-use of the islands by Spain, that nation has no proper right to them, and that (rerman) finding them unoccupied, has rightfully planted her own fing there.

are undebted to a writer in the think Monthly of eptember for an account of an at tempt made under the laws of the United States no twenty five years ago to take from the re-bile of San Domingo an Island belonging to that country and lying just off its coast and we are shown how, under the direction of Mr way and, the government of the United attention that country and lying just off its coast and we are shown how, under the direction of Mr wew and, the government of the United with refused to commit itself to an act that appears to have been quite parallel with the present attempt of Germany to take the Caroline islands from "pain, Germany might with profit to herself take a lesson from the standard of mornity in such a matter, mainfained by the United States. If were a constrained by the United States. tained by the United States. It was a case in which the great acumen and sterling integrity of William H. Seward triumphed over the less scrupulous energy of Jersman 8 Black, and saved the United States from being committed an act of the most degrant territorial aggree-

In the year 1856 congress passed an act substantially declaring that when any citizen may have discovered a deposit of guano on any island, rock or key not within the lawful juriediction of any government, and taken penocatile possession of the same, such island, rock or key may, in the discretion of the president, be considered as appertaining to the United States Some four years later a Baltimore merchant discretions. covered a deposit of guane on Alte Velo, a small laland within fifteen rules of the coust of San Domingo, took possession of the same and veral cargoes, reported the discovery to the state department at Washington, and put on the island a notice of occupancy. But after a short time a Dominican man-of-war appeared, with orders to disposees the new claimant. Quite a orce of men was on the island, working for the guano company, but there was at the time no vessel to carry the men away. Hence the cup-tain of the Dominican vessel, who acted throughout with greatest couriesy, told the men he would take them on his own ship for leave the island they must, within twenty four hours, The men and materials were landed at the city and the "outrage" was at once tall before him, But the great southern rebellion was him then gathering head, and the case could not be considered. Mr Black went out of office and Mr. Seward come in As soon as the wir was over Mr Black, who had now become attorney for the ability of the obligation. claimants, began to press the matter upon the attention of the government. Mr Sewari gave the case his attention, and the result was a de-cision that the island belonged to san Bonango But Black, who was on terms of great intimacy with President Johnson, appealed from sew ard's decision, and in an elaborate brief, which peared by and presented to the president, peared in strong terms the "utruge upon the rights of his cheuts and the 'indignity' suffered by the Intel 'indignity' suffered by the Intel of his cheuts and the 'indignity' president, over whom he had much intingnet to send an American man of-war to Alfo Velo and blow the Dominican nary out of the water I nder this pressure Johnson again referred the claim to the department of state

Mr. Seward, put upon his mettle, determined not the feeble Dominican republic should not be robbed even of an insignificant island by its powerful neighbor In addition to his onerous duttes, be went to work as a lawyer to prove that Dominica had a clear title to Alto Velo In is case he exhibited a striking compassion for the weak even at the cost of much labor to libraself. The contest became a personal one be-tween Seward and Black 'eward collected all the maps bearing upon the subject in the connul bbrary. He found that on a map pabded in 1797 the boundary between French and Spanish possessions on San Domingo was sharply defined, and that Alto Velo was no ed as belonging to Spain. Upon another map published in 1601 Alto Velo was indicated as belonging to Spain. The same was true of maps published in 1564, 1558, 1523. In addition to these and more important than all is a map found by Alexander von Humbeldt in 1832 among the archives of Parts, bearing the name of Juan de la Cosa and the date 1800 Lpon is map Alto Velo was indicated and named he la Cosa was the geographer who accompanied Christopher Columbus upon his second voyage, and this map and contemporty records prove that columbus himself discovered also Viele and American Velo and, having at first mustaken it for a sup, Doming on 1841 and the spanish portion of Star Domingo in 1841 and the sheet the data of Alto Velous without a six

Thus Seward, by a most parasonking theorie gation, in what he so creded in sommoning Christopher Columb is houself as a witness te-feated Black's crum. When it shows was referred to the senate of the United Stuck, with this array of historical evidence, that body promptly dismissed it. Pinck was so magnitud at his failure that he became bostlate the headest Johnson who had declined to order out the navy on his behalf. It was for this rout of that be refused to defend tohuson when the latter was in peril of impeachment.

Black's claim that even if San Domlings 1 : 1 owned the sland it had forfeited the ownership by failure to utilize it, Seward overwhelmed both with ridicule and argument. "Certainly," said Seward, "the United States do not forfeit by non-use the test from copper and gold which are reported as being so profusely distributed throughout he illustrated in culant of Alack !!

This саво вее ста ав с оче у раз е 1 ка гынд э to that now presented in the larme? Germany to the Caroline salands is by one beforead and political title to these islands forfeited by on use or non-occupancy. The idea sooms beard. It therefore appears not at all probable that Germany e claim will receive countenance Extraordinary catches of satmon in the recr Tay are reported. I is many years since so many were caught. At Perth the rotal price s reported to be fid and 9d per pound.
